

Marketing & Design Intern

Washington, DC

Full time | $18 per hour, 12 weeks

This summer, we're searching for a Marketing & Design Intern to help us sharpen the TeleGeography brand across our digital assets.

This person will take on email and landing page template design initiatives, develop visuals for online marketing content, and support TeleGeography's ongoing map projects.

If you're savvy with the Adobe Creative Suite and have a passion for data visualization, keep reading. (Bonus points if you've ever tangoed with the online marketing platform HubSpot.)

We're looking for a teammate with unmatched creativity, a keen eye for detail, and curiosity to spare. Our ideal candidate would be a current design student with the ability to join us in our Washington, DC office twice a week between May 20 and August 9, 2024. But we remain open to remote work options for outstanding candidates outside the DMV area.

If this all sounds like you—and you're keen to spend your summer knee-deep in digital design—email us your resume and a quick note about why this internship sounds like a fit to marketing@telegeography.com.